Autumn/Winter 2022

Welcome

As a not-for-profit university press with a social mission, Bristol University Press addresses new and enduring global social challenges through its award-winning scholarship, newsworthy social commentary and impactful policy and practice-focused content.

Our content is accessed in 155 countries and our new easy-to-use platform, Bristol University Press Digital, makes our authors' work even more accessible (page 4). For the first time, our evidence-informed journals and books are brought together into a unique online resource for those tackling social problems. Readers can search by subject, global social challenge theme and the UN Sustainable Development Goals, alongside discovering carefully curated e-collections.

BUP Digital is home to our fully Open Access Global Social Challenges Journal

(pp 5-6) which offers a forum for discussion between academics, policy makers, thought leaders, NGOs, practitioners and the public by providing free access to interdisciplinary knowledge from across the Global North and South.

We are delighted to showcase our new titles for Autumn and Winter 2022 in this catalogue with topics ranging from global migration to artificial intelligence, from flexible working to child protection. We hope you will find much to grab your attention and, if the work inspires you to write, do get in touch as we are always happy to hear from potential authors.

Peer-reviewed books and journals tackling global social challenges.

This new platform offers you instant access to Bristol University Press and Policy Press digital content: ebooks, journal articles and collections from across the social sciences, including the new, non-profit, open access (OA) Global Social Challenges Journal.

Bristol University Press Digital, launched in Spring 2022, has been developed as part of our mission to publish research that tackles the biggest problems facing the world today.

The platform provides users with e-collections in the social sciences, uniquely curated and themed around the global social challenges and the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), enabling scholarly communities and practitioners with crucial insights to effect positive change in the world.

Benefits for academics, researchers and libraries include:

- 1,400+ books, 18 journals and 60 OA titles, all tagged and searchable by global social challenges;
- Access to our innovative new OA Global Social Challenges Journal, which breaks down boundaries to participation in, and access to, truly global social science research;
- An innovative tagging system, saving libraries time and resource in collating content and maintaining collection relevance to rapidly evolving themes;
- Maximum discoverability of our authors' work across books and journals;
- An intuitive and easy-to-use solution for both readers and librarians;
- Key industry standards for accessibility (WAGC 2.0) and reporting (COUNTER-compliant statistics).

Bristol University Press Digital is revolutionising the way scholarly communities search, experience and share content by connecting you with research that addresses the global social challenges.

Global Social Challenges Journal

NON-PROFIT, OPEN ACCESS
PUBLISHING FOR CHANGE

NOW ONLINE

Bristol University Press is delighted to announce our new fully Open Access journal.

"I'm proud to see Bristol University Press launching this important new journal, which promises to address the most urgent complexities of global social challenges by drawing together accessible international scholarship across the disciplines to inform policy and practice."

PROFESSOR JUDITH SQUIRES, DEPUTY VICE-CHANCELLOR AND PROVOST, UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL

How can we reimagine society in an era of climate change, pandemic, hunger, poverty, questions of racial, ethnic and gender justice and other pressing global societal challenges? Significant threats and dangers lie ahead of us, but so do opportunities, as new ways of being, thinking and doing emerge. This new, fully Open Access journal aims to facilitate thinking about these positive new trajectories and to become the journal of choice to address the complexities of global social challenges across disciplines and fields.

It is the first such journal to be based in the social sciences while also engaging with research from humanities, arts and STEM. Including marginalised, minority and indigenous world views, the journal will be an important home for research that contributes to the creation of alternative futures that acknowledge past injustices and are socially and environmentally just and sustaining.

The Death of the Left

Why We Must Begin from the Beginning Again

Simon Winlow, Northumbria University and Steve Hall, Teeside University

"This is probably the most important book to emerge in the humanities and social sciences in the last two decades."

TARA BRABAZON, FLINDERS UNIVERSITY

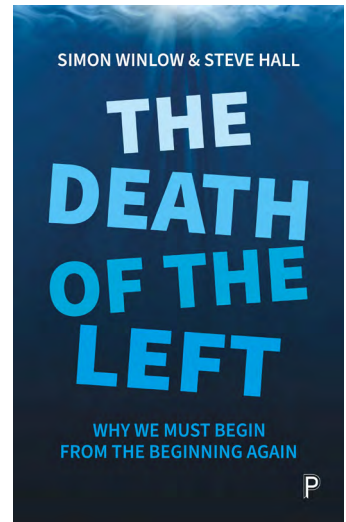

"Combative, provocative and necessary, this book should be read by anyone interested in the plight of the working class."

DEIRDRE O'NEILL, FILMMAKER

"A provocative post-mortem of the Anglophone left's ideological missteps that will spark fierce debate among activists, scholars and students."

LEE JONES, QUEEN MARY UNIVERSITY OF LONDON

Winlow and Hall argue that the only way to resurrect what was once valuable in leftist politics is to declare the left dead and begin from the beginning again. They focus on key historical moments when the left could have pushed history in a better direction. They identify the root causes of its maladies, describe how new cultural obsessions displaced core unifying principles, and explore the yawning chasm that now separates the left from the working class. Drawing upon a wealth of historical evidence to structure its story of entryism, corruption, fragmentation and decline, they close the book by outlining how a new reincarnation of the left can win in the 21st century.

The Authoritarian Century

China's Rise and the Demise of the Liberal International Order

Chris Ogden, University of St Andrews

"A bold and refreshing analysis of the characteristics, possibilities and conditions of an emerging China-centric order and what this means for the liberal world order and democratic institutions."

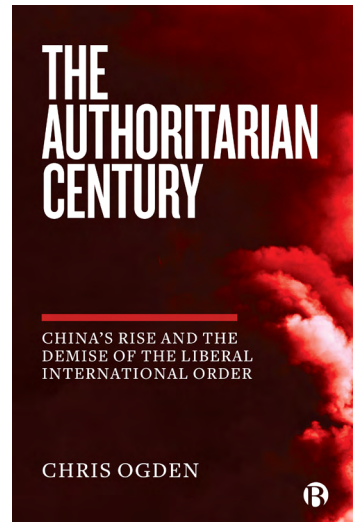

JINGDONG YUAN, UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY AND STOCKHOLM INTERNATIONAL PEACE RESEARCH INSTITUTE

"Ogden's analysis and advice about Pax Sinica (Pax Autocratica) replacing Pax Americana (Pax Democratica) is very timely and valuable to anyone concerned by human polity and world order."

FEI-LING WANG, GEORGIA INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

The rise of authoritarian movements presents an increasing illiberal trend in international affairs. A rapidly modernising China is at the vanguard of this phenomenon. Does this signal the demise of western democracy and the dawn of an authoritarian era in world politics?

In this book, Chris Ogden argues that the world is on the verge of a capitulation to China's preferred authoritarian order. As other world powers adopt such values, they are facilitating the normalisation of this authoritarianism into a dominant global phenomenon. This shift, he says, will transform global institutions, human rights and political systems, and herald an authoritarian century.

Highly Discriminating

Why the City Isn't Fair and Diversity Doesn't Work

Louise Ashley, Royal Holloway, University of London

"A rich, penetrating analysis of the deep and persistent inequalities that permeate the City of London. Everyone who wants to see a fairer society should read it."

DIANE REAY, UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

"Vividly exposes the contradictions which pervade [the City's] diversity initiatives. An essential book for anyone concerned about the inequalities which blight the UK today, it is also a fascinating read."

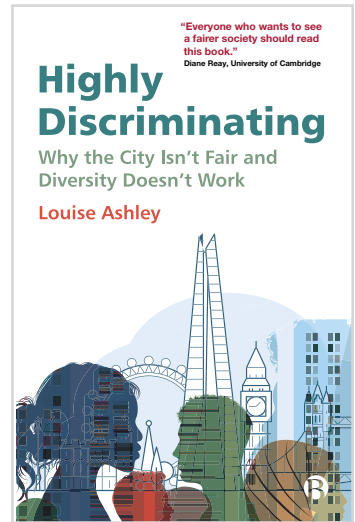

HILARY SOMMERLAD, UNIVERSITY OF LEEDS

"A landmark text. With razor-sharp precision, Ashley cuts through the glossy corporate promise of 'diversity' to reveal how the City both generates, and profits from, profound class inequalities."

SAM FRIEDMAN, LONDON SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

Why does the City of London, despite an apparent commitment to recruitment and progression based on objective merit within its hiring practices, continue to reproduce the status quo? Written by a leading expert on diversity and elite professions, this book examines issues of equality in the City, what its practitioners say in public, and what they think behind closed doors.

Drawing on research, interviews, practitioner literature and internal reports, it argues that hiring practices in the City are highly discriminating in favour of a narrow pool of affluent applicants, and future progress may only be achieved by the state taking a greater role in organisational life. It calls for a policy shift at both the organisational and governmental level to the implications of widening inequality in the UK.

Wronged and Dangerous

Viral Masculinity and the Populist Pandemic

Karen Lee Ashcraft, University of Colorado Boulder

"Toxic masculinity is pervasive in contemporary politics and Karen Lee Ashcraft offers the best analysis to date. Wronged and Dangerous is also a sensitive engagement in the troubled politics of belonging, resentment, and anger."

CRAIG CALHOUN, ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY

"At once personal, searching, and accessible, and often funny, Karen Ashcraft's gender analysis charts a humane path forward through the political storms of wounded masculinity."

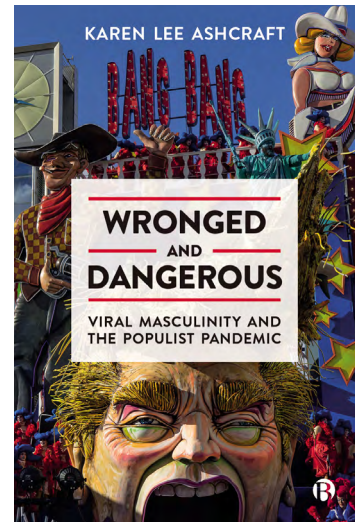

JOHN DURHAM PETERS, YALE UNIVERSITY

"A unique, passionate reading of the entanglement of gender and New Populism, explaining how the infectious passion of aggrieved masculinity goes viral because it runs on a gender binary code."

SILVIA GHERARDI, UNIVERSITY OF TRENTO

Is populism fuelled by a feeling of manhood under attack? If gender is its driving force, are there better ways to respond? COVID-19 delivers a stark warning: the global surge of populism endangers public health.

Wronged and Dangerous introduces 'viral masculinity' as a novel way to meet that threat by tackling the deep connection of our social and physical worlds. It calls us to ask not what populism says, but how it spreads. Leading with gender without leaving socioeconomic forces behind, it upends prevailing wisdom about populist politics today. You do not need to know or care about gender to get invested. You only need to be concerned with our future.

Woke Capitalism

How Corporate Morality is Sabotaging Democracy

Carl Rhodes, University of Technology Sydney

"The workplace has become politicised as never before and companies are struggling to adjust to the demands of younger consumers and employees... [Woke Capitalism] examines the history of this phenomenon as well as the political causes it has adopted and the implications for all of us."

FINANCIAL TIMES

"Carl Rhodes explores how the corporate world's calculated embrace of social justice poses a significant societal threat. This book not only unveils the hypocrisies and self-serving nature of 'woke capitalism', but also its pernicious effect on democracy."

LSE REVIEW OF BOOKS

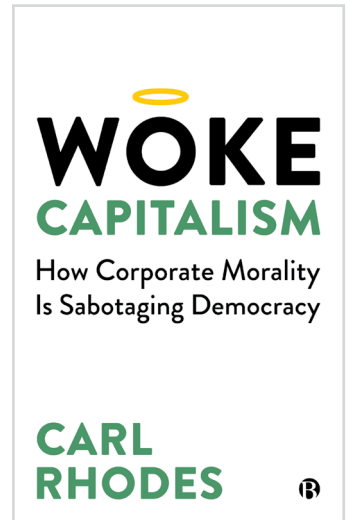

"This excellent book reveals the threat of 'progressive' corporations to humanity, democracy, and the environment. It offers a compelling and urgent call for us to wake up to 'woke capitalism' before it is too late!"

PETER BLOOM, UNIVERSITY OF ESSEX

SHORTLISTED FOR THE BUSINESS BOOK AWARDS 2022

Does 'woke capitalism' improve capitalism's image or does it threaten the future of democracy? From Nike's support for Colin Kaepernick to Gillette's engagement with the toxic masculinity debate, the 21st century has seen a sharp increase in corporations taking over public morality, a phenomenon which has come to be known as 'woke capitalism'.

Carl Rhodes takes us on a lively and fascinating history of woke capitalism – from 1950s corporate social responsibility, through 1980s neoliberalism, tracing it alongside the adoption and mutation of the term 'woke' from Black American culture – and brings us right up to current-day debates. By examining the political causes that woke capitalism has co-opted, and the social causes that it has not, he argues that this surreptitious extension of capitalism has serious implications for us all.

50 Dark Destinations

Crime and Contemporary Tourism

Edited by Adam Lynes, Birmingham City University, Craig Kelly, Birmingham City University and James Treadwell, Staffordshire University

“Fun and scholarly, engaging and academic, interesting and intellectual, and should be widely read by anyone interested in violence, trauma, memory, memorialization, war, museums, and history. Gruesome and chilling but at the same time accessible and illuminating.”

KEVIN WALBY, UNIVERSITY OF WINNIPEG

From the Alcatraz East Crime Museum and Jack the Ripper guided tours to Phnom Pehn killing fields, ‘dark tourism’ is now a multi-million-pound global industry. Even in the most pleasant tourist destinations, underlying harms are constantly perpetuated, affecting both consumers and those who work or live around such tourist hotspots.

Highlighting 50 travel destinations across six continents, expert criminologists, psychologists and historians explore the past and contemporary issues which we often disregard during our everyday leisure. This captivating book is the ‘go-to’ guide for anyone interested in crime and deviance-related tourism. Accessible and digestible, it exposes a worrying trend in contemporary consumer culture, in which many of us partake.

Psychology at the Heart of Social Change

Developing a Progressive Vision for Society

Mick Cooper, University of Roehampton

"Offers practical methods from psychology to address our biggest problems. Opens up compelling and nuanced understandings of both the motives and needs of diverse human populations that would undoubtedly strengthen progressive politics."

CHRISTABEL HARLEY, CENTRAL SAINT MARTINS, UNIVERSITY OF THE ARTS LONDON

"Moves from broad theoretical concerns to perspectives on productive and fulfilling living in the present social system. But it also measures the present by way of a humanist and anticapitalist standard that allows us to grasp – and think about – better outcomes for ourselves and our communities."

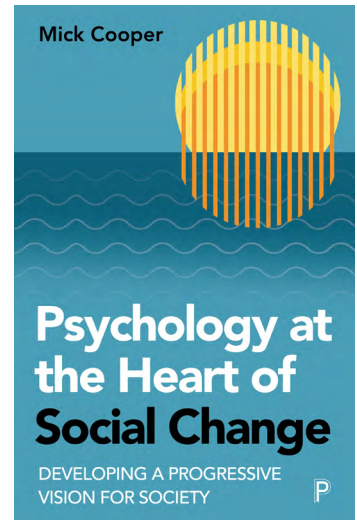

KEVIN ANDERSON, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, SANTA BARBARA

"A very powerful case for integrating the insights of humanistic psychology into activism. Being more honest, accepting and compassionate, as well as showing our vulnerability, would undoubtedly get us a lot further."

PETER BAKER, DIRECTOR, GLOBAL ACTION ON MEN'S HEALTH

We live in troubled times: COVID-19, police racism, and climate change are just some of the challenges we are currently facing. Never has there been such a need for a new politic – nor such an opportunity for one. To create a world in which people thrive, we need to know what thriving is. Over the past century, psychotherapy – and its parent discipline, psychology – has built up a rich, vibrant and highly practical understanding of human wellbeing and distress.

This book shows why we need, and can create, a progressive politics that is profoundly informed by insights from the psychotherapeutic and psychological domain, moving us from a politics of blame to a politics of understanding. In this vision of the world – surrounded by a culture of radical acceptance – all individuals can live fulfilling lives. We need progressive political forces to develop greater understandings of psychological needs and processes; and to work with others in a spirit of collaboration, dialogue and respect.

The Pursuit of Possibility

Redesigning Research Universities

Nigel Thrift, University of Oxford

"Research universities matter! Thrift provides an unashamed, insightful and personal defence. Expect to be provoked and want to argue back. An essential read for those who value research and its vital contribution to our future."

KEN SLOAN, HARPER ADAMS UNIVERSITY

"A love letter to British universities. With humanity, humility and profundity, Thrift shows why it is important that government needs to sponsor rather than control."

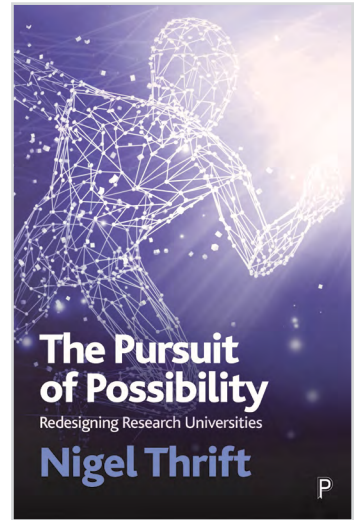

ADAM TICKELL, UNIVERSITY OF BIRMINGHAM

"A compelling read for anyone who cares about the future of our universities. Thrift outlines a distinctive vision for the future of British research universities, arguing for a recasting of their operation to ensure that they remain intellectual lighthouses at a time when their research is needed more than ever to secure a future for our planet."

JUDITH SQUIRES, DEPUTY VC AND PROVOST, UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL

Are British research universities losing their way or are they finding a new way? Nigel Thrift, a well-known academic and a former Vice-Chancellor, explores recent changes in the British research university that threaten to erode the quality of these higher education institutions. He considers what a research university has now become by examining the quandaries that have arisen from a succession of misplaced strategies and false expectations.

Challenging both higher education policy and leadership, he argues that the focus on student number growth and a series of research policy missteps has upset research universities' priorities just at a point in the history of planetary breakdown when their research is most needed.

A Year Like No Other

Life on a Low Income during COVID-19

Ruth Patrick, University of York, Kayleigh Garthwaite, University of Birmingham, Jim Kaufman, University of York, Geoff Page, University of York, Maddy Power, University of York and Katie Pybus, University of York

“This important participatory study – which puts the voices of low income parents and carers at its heart – should be read and also reflected and acted on by policy makers and all seeking a more just society.”

RUTH LISTER, MEMBER OF THE HOUSE OF LORDS AND AUTHOR OF POVERTY

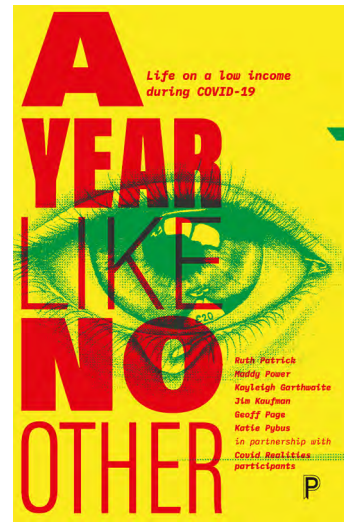

“Humane, powerful, important, compelling. Here are the real experts speaking about poverty and hardship – those who have experienced and lived through it. If I could, I’d give a copy to every MP, policy maker and journalist in the country.”

KERRY HUDSON, AUTHOR OF LOWBORN

Money was already tight for UK families living on a low income before the COVID-19 pandemic, but national lockdowns made life much harder.

Telling the stories of these families, this book exposes the ways that pre-existing inequalities, insecurities and hardships were amplified during the pandemic for families who were already in poverty before COVID-19, as well as those pushed into poverty by the economic fallout it created.

Drawing on the Covid Realities research programme, and developed in partnership with parents and carers, it explores experiences of home-schooling, social security receipt and government, community and charitable support. This book sets out all that is wrong with the status quo, while also offering a powerful agenda for change.

Ending the Social Care Crisis

A New Road to Reform

Richard Humphries, Health Foundation and University of Worcester

“Richard Humphries offers a comprehensive assessment of long-term care issues through this British perspective on social care. This thoughtful, eminently practical book proposes powerful ideas that can lead to sustainable solutions in England and beyond.”

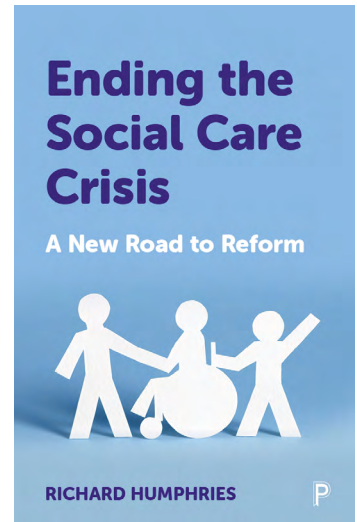

SUSAN C. REINHARD, AARP PUBLIC POLICY INSTITUTE

“An indispensable tour de force on the nature and purpose of adult social care, the failure to develop an effective policy response and how to put this right.”

BOB HUDSON, UNIVERSITY OF KENT

Ensuring effective, sustainable and affordable care and support for people of all ages is an urgent public policy challenge.

Drawing on the history of social care, international comparisons and lived experience, this vital book outlines a different vision of social care as an essential part of England’s economic and social infrastructure that enables people to live good lives.

Safeguarding Young People Beyond the Family Home

Responding to Extra-Familial Risks and Harms

Carlene Firmin, Durham University, Michelle Lefevre and Nathalie Huegler, University of Sussex and Delphine Peace, Durham University

ePDF and ePUB available Open Access under CC-BY-NC-ND licence.

During adolescence, young people are exposed to a range of risks beyond their family homes including sexual and criminal exploitation, peer-on-peer abuse and gang-related violence. However, it has only been over the past two decades that the critical safeguarding implications of these harms have started to be recognised. Social care organisations are increasingly experimenting with new approaches but continue to experience challenges in supporting affected young people and their families.

This book analyses the results of the first rapid evidence assessment of social care organisations' responses to risks and harms outside the home across 10 countries. The authors highlight key areas for service development, give insights into how these risks and harms can be understood, and consider wider implications for policy and practice.

POLICY PRESS SHORTS POLICY & PRACTICE

The Best Interests Assessor Practice Handbook

Second edition

Rachel Hubbard, University of the West of England and Kevin Stone, University of Plymouth

“Practitioners will relish a textbook so firmly grounded in real-life practice. A most readable, attractive and engaging guide written by people who clearly know what they are talking about.”

ROBERT JOHNS, UNIVERSITY OF EAST LONDON

“Provides an excellent introduction for BIA students, with many areas for critical reflection and development for more experienced practitioners ... particularly helpful in articulating and championing the potential for BIAs to improve the daily experience of people receiving care Social Work Education.”

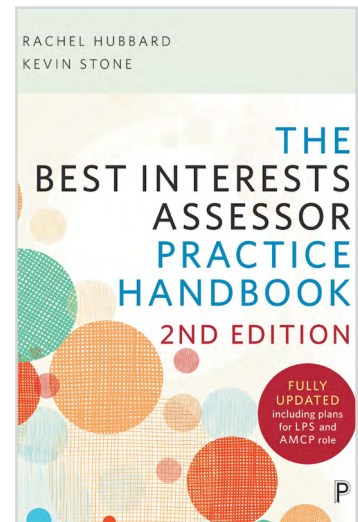

SOCIAL WORK EDUCATION

Firmly grounded in real-life practice, this is the only textbook focusing directly on the BIA role. Offering clear and practical advice on the legal elements of the role, and the values and practice elements of working within the Liberty Protection Safeguards (LPS) framework, this is essential reading for BIA students and practitioners.

This fully updated edition takes account of recent legislative changes, including the planned changes from the Mental Capacity Amendment Act 2019, recent case law and the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on BIA practice. Packed with advice on delivering effective, person-centred, rights-driven practice, it includes:

- case studies;
- legal summaries;
- decision-making activities;
- CPD support;
- examples of new case law in practice.

Looking forward, the book considers the new context for practice in the Approved Mental Capacity Professional (AMCP) role within the LPS and the potential roles that BIAs might fulfil in this new framework in the future.

Child Development and the Brain

From Embryo to Adolescence

Second edition

Rob Abbott, The Open University and Esther Burkitt,
University of Chichester

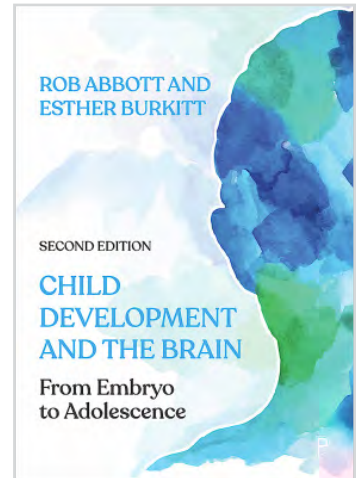

“A highly accessible introduction to developmental neuroscience. Abbott and Burkitt explain complex issues with clarity and elegance, and their engaging text is a pleasure to read. An exemplary book.”

MARTYN BARRETT, UNIVERSITY OF SURREY, ABOUT THE FIRST EDITION

This bestselling textbook provides social science students with an accessible introduction to neuroscience and the implications for our understandings of child development, considering the links between brain development and social and cultural issues.

Now covering the 0–18+ age range, the new edition critically analyses the relationship between children and young people’s thoughts, behaviours and feelings and the ways in which their developing brains are structured. It includes a new section on emotional development in adolescence, considering the impact of drugs and alcohol on the brain and the role of brain changes in driving risky behaviours. Incorporating the latest research and debate throughout, the book offers students and CYP practitioners:

- case studies showing how brain science is changing practice;
- a companion website including self-test questions;
- end-of-chapter summaries, further reading and questions to test knowledge;
- a glossary of neuroscientific terms.

A Hierarchical Vision of Order

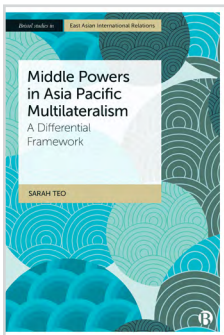

Understanding Chinese Foreign Policy in Asia

Antoine Roth, Tohoku University

China's vision for international order is a matter of great global interest. This book analyses China's vision for foreign policy and how it is seeking to achieve its goals with its immediate neighbours. The book provides a historically informed account by examining the legacy of China's imperial past and traditional political philosophy for insights on the country's view of its place in today's world.

Middle Powers in Asia Pacific Multilateralism

A Differential Framework

Sarah Teo, Nanyang Technological University

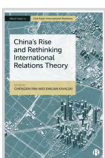

Taking Australia, Indonesia and South Korea as examples, the book argues that middle powers pursue a weakening of 'stratificatory differentiation', targeted in particular at major powers, and a strengthening of 'functional differentiation' in which middle powers can assume key roles. It sets out a valuable new framework to explain and understand the behaviour of middle powers in multilateralism.

International Theory at the Margins

Neglected Essays, Recurring Themes

Nicholas Greenwood Onuf,
Florida International University

This book brings together 13 of Nicholas Onuf's previously published yet rarely cited essays. They address topics that Onuf, a celebrated international theorist, has puzzled over for decades, prompting him to develop a distinctive perspective on international theory as social theory. Among these topics are the problem of materiality in social construction, epochal change in the modern world, and the power of language.

Building on the work of giants, from Aristotle and Cicero, Hume and Kant, to Derrida and Foucault, and drawing on diverse contemporary theorists, including Seyla Benhabib, James Der Derian, Johan Galtung, Morton Kaplan, Joseph Nye, James Rosenau, Elaine Scarry and Kenneth Waltz, the book ranges over the margins of the field and settles on issues that have never been put to rest.

Knowledge Alchemy

Models and Agency in Global Knowledge Governance

Tero Erkkilä, University of Helsinki, Meng-Hsuan Chou, Nanyang Technological University and Niilo Kauppi, University of Strasbourg

This book introduces the concept of 'knowledge alchemy' to capture the process of transforming mundane practices and policies of governance into competitive ones following imagined global standards.

Using global examples, it explores how knowledge alchemy increasingly informs national and institutional policies and practices on economic performance, higher education, research and innovation.

Civil Servants and Globalization

Integrating MENA Countries in a Globalized Economy

Tony Verheijen, The World Bank, Katarina Staronova, Comenius University Bratislava, Ibrahim El Ghandour and Anne-Lucie Lefebvre, The World Bank

A collaboration between practitioners and academic public policy experts, this volume analyses the impact of globalisation on civil service systems across the Middle East and North Africa. It presents an analytical model to assess how globalisation influences civil servants and traces the shifting patterns of power and accountability between civil servants, politicians and other actors.

Precarious Urbanism

Displacement, Belonging and the Reconstruction of Somali Cities

Jutta Bakonyi, Durham University and Peter Chonka, King's College London

This book explores relationships between war, displacement and city-making. Focusing on people seeking refuge in Somali cities after being forced to migrate by violence, environmental shocks or economic pressures, it highlights how these populations are actively transforming urban space.

Using first-hand testimonies and participatory photography by urban in-migrants, the book documents and analyses the micropolitics of urban camp management, evictions and gentrification, and the networked labour of displaced populations that underpins growing urban economies.

Masculinities, Gender and International Relations

Terrell Carver and Laura Lyddon,
University of Bristol

“Demonstrates how analysis of gender and sexualities can be transformative.”

MARY HAWKESWORTH, RUTGERS UNIVERSITY

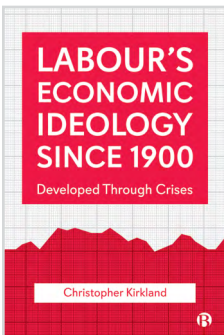

Gender is widely recognised as an important and useful lens for the study of International Relations (IR). However, there are few books that specifically investigate masculinity/ies in relation to world politics. Taking a feminist-inspired understanding of gender as its starting point, the book:

- explains that gender is both an asymmetrical binary and a hierarchy;
- shows how masculinisation works via ‘nested hierarchies’ of domination and subordination;
- explores the imbrication of masculinities with the nation state and great power politics;
- develops an understanding of the arms trade with commercial processes of militarisation.

Labour's Economic Ideology Since 1900

Developed Through Crises

Christopher Kirkland, York St. John
University

“A ‘must read’ for all those with an interest in the past and future of British politics.”

PATRICK DIAMOND, QUEEN MARY UNIVERSITY OF LONDON

This book traces the economic ideology of the UK Labour Party from its origins to the current day. Through its analysis, it emphasises key crises which the party has faced. In analysing this history, the party's ideology is examined through four core themes:

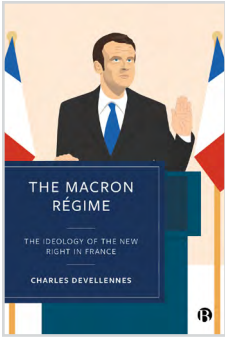

- the party's definition of socialism;
- the role of the state in economic decision making;
- the party's understanding of inequalities;
- its relationship with external groups, such as the Fabian Society and the trade union movement.

The Macron Régime

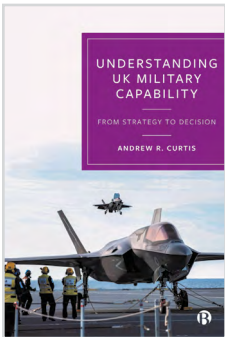

The Ideology of the New Right in France

Charles Develennes, University of Kent

This book examines Emmanuel Macron's political career from his rise as a public figure to his time as a president.

It explores Macron's political ideology and examines the enactment of the key notions of security, merit and hope during his time in office. By offering a close study of his actions and ideological commitment, this book argues that, despite claims of being ideologically neutral, Macron actually represents a new form of right-wing politics in France.

Understanding UK Military Capability

From Strategy to Decision

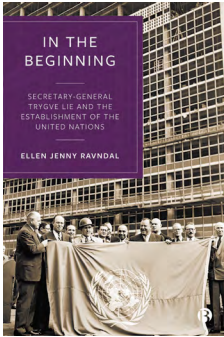

Andrew R. Curtis, Independent Defence and Security Researcher

Between 2021 and 2031, the UK government is set to spend over £230 billion on its military. Who decides how to use these funds, and how can we be sure that the UK's armed forces can meet the threats of tomorrow?

This book provides the answers to these crucial questions. Concentrating on decisions taken below the political level, this book uncovers the factors that underpin the translation of strategic direction into military capability.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie and the Establishment of the United Nations

Ellen Jenny Ravndal, Australian National University

This book reviews the formative years of the United Nations (UN), the world's most important intergovernmental organisation, under its first Secretary-General Trygve Lie.

This welcome appraisal shows how the foundations for an expanded secretary-general role were laid during this period, and that Lie's contribution was greater than has later been acknowledged.

Regional Organizations and Their Responses to Coups

Measures, Motives and Aims

Franziska Hohlstein, German Federal Statistical Office

"Theoretically and methodologically advanced, and meticulously researched."

FREDRIK SÖDERBAUM, UNIVERSITY OF GOTHENBURG

Using a mixed-methods approach, this book examines the role played by regional organisations (ROs) following the occurrence of a coup d'état. It analyses which factors influence the strength of reactions demonstrated by ROs and explores which different post-coup solutions ROs pursue.

The book concludes that ROs respond more decisively to a coup based on how detrimental it will be for the state of democracy in a country, and the higher its risk of destabilising the region.

The EU Migrant Generation in Asia

Middle-Class Aspirations in Asian Global Cities

Helena Hof, University of Zurich

Drawing on an extensive study with young individuals who migrated to Singapore and Tokyo in the 2010s, this book demonstrates how migration to Asian business centres has become an alternative to a middle-class life in Europe during that period. Hof reveals how the perceived insecurities of life in the crisis-ridden EU result in these migrants' onwards migration or prolonged stays in Asia.

Race, Class, Parenting and Children's Leisure

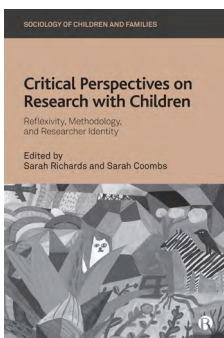

Children's Leisurescapes and Parenting Cultures in Middle-Class British Indian Families

Utsa Mukherjee, Brunel University London

Children's leisure lives are changing, with increasing dominance of organised activities and screen-based leisure. These shifts have reconfigured parenting practices too. However, our current understandings of these processes are race-blind and based mostly on the experiences of white middle-class families. Drawing on an innovative study of middle-class British Indian families, this book brings children's and parents' voices to the forefront and bridges childhood studies, family studies and leisure studies to theorise children's leisure from a fresh perspective.

Politics of the Gift

Towards a Convivial Society

Frank Adloff, University of Hamburg

At the heart of capitalism lies the idea of ‘homo economicus’: an ever-rational human being motivated by self-interest which arguably leads societies to economic prosperity.

Drawing on French sociologist Marcel Mauss’s influential theory of ‘the gift’, Frank Adloff shatters this fallacy to show how mutual trust is the only glue that holds societies together; people are giving beings and they can cooperate for the benefit of all when the logic of maximising personal gain in capitalism is broken.

The Future is Now

An Introduction to Prefigurative Politics

Edited by Lara Monticelli, Copenhagen
Business School

The gloomy prospect of climate change and ecosystems’ collapse calls for an urgent rethinking of all aspects of our life: how we work, produce, eat, spend, take care of each other, relate to nature and organize our societies. Prefigurative initiatives are attracting a growing amount of attention from scholars and activists precisely because they are envisioning alternative futures by embodying radically different ways of living in the present.

Thanks to the contribution of leading researchers, The Future is Now represents the go-to book for anyone seeking a comprehensive, state-of-the-art and thought-provoking introduction to the thriving field of prefigurative politics.

Racial Diversity in Contemporary France

The Case of Colorblindness

Marie des Neiges Léonard, École Polytechnique

This book offers a unique perspective on contemporary France by focusing on racial diversity, race and racism as central features of French society and identity. The author critically reviews the contentious public policies and significant issues, including the 2005 French riots and the policies regarding the Islamic veil, revealing how colour-blind racism plays a role in the persistence of racial inequality for French racial minorities. Drawing on American sociological frameworks, this outstanding study presents a new way of thinking in the study of racial identity politics in today's France.

Edited by Bojan Bilić, University of Vienna, Iwo Nord, Södertörn University and Aleksa Milanović, Singidunum University in Belgrade

"This richly textured and important book could not have come at a more welcome time."

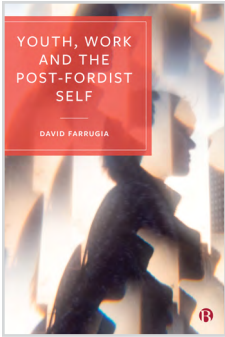

CATHERINE BAKER, UNIVERSITY OF HULL

This powerful book documents the unspoken stories of a diversity of gender embodiments across the post-Yugoslav states, uncovering how they have navigated the murky waters of war, racism, capitalism and transphobia.

Written by an interdisciplinary collective of authors, the book unleashes the knowledge concentrated in trans lives and resists trans erasures in Eastern Europe and beyond.

Youth, Work and the Post-Fordist Self

David Farrugia, University of Newcastle, Australia

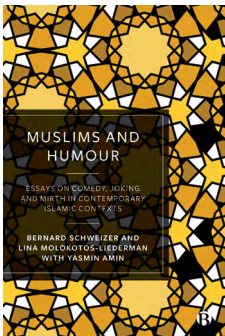

“Shows how youth itself is formed through the requirement to become a worker. This book is a must-read for those interested in the changing nature of work.”

DAN WOODMAN, UNIVERSITY OF MELBOURNE

In the past, youth has been seen as a transition into the labour market, but today young people’s identities are increasingly wrapped up in their value as workers. Drawing on empirical research, this book provides an innovative exploration of youth and work, showing how youth identities are connected with the dynamics of labour and value in contemporary capitalism.

Muslims and Humour

Essays on Comedy, Joking and Mirth in Contemporary Islamic Contexts

Bernard Schweizer, Long Island University and Lina Molokotos-Liederman, University of Fribourg

“We needed a volume that thinks critically about how Muslims create religious humour ... Thankfully, we now have that volume.”

DAVID FELTMATE, AUBURN UNIVERSITY AT MONTGOMERY

This insightful collection takes a multidisciplinary approach to the subject of humour in Islam. It ranges across sociological, cultural, theological and political themes, presenting examples of comedy in both Muslim and non-Muslim countries. The authors shed new light on common misconceptions about humour and laughter in Islam and deftly tackle sensitive themes from blasphemy to freedom of speech.

Where's the 'Human' in Human Resource Management?

Managing Work in the 21st Century

Michael Gold and Chris Smith, Royal Holloway University of London

"An attractive mix of traditional topics, contemporary cases and innovative content that places HRM into its wider context ... a valuable resource for students and tutors."

PAUL THOMPSON, UNIVERSITY OF STIRLING

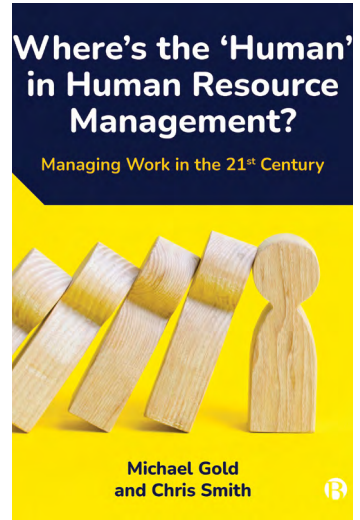

"A highly stimulating book that provides structured knowledge about HRM, but also makes academics and practitioners think outside of the box. The analyses and practical examples cover the core topics of HR strategy, as well as issues that are too seldom dealt with in textbooks, such as workplace conflicts or new technologies like artificial intelligence and HR analytics."

MARTIN KRZYWDZINSKI, WZB BERLIN SOCIAL SCIENCE CENTER

We all have to work to pay the bills – but what influence do we really have over our pay and working conditions? The emergence of the global economy, digital technologies, mass migration, gig work and zero-hours contracts have catapulted this question to the forefront of Human Resources Management (HRM). So how can we keep the 'human' in human resource management when faced by these pressures? This book adopts a critical approach to today's major workplace challenges. It turns traditional HRM on its head by placing workers' perspectives towards the workplace alongside those of managers to create an HRM textbook for the 21st century. Written by two experienced and research-active authors, the book:

- covers key issues that are overlooked in many textbooks, including the 'new' unitarism, corporate social responsibility and the challenges of artificial intelligence;
- adopts a critical approach that will relate more to students who don't wish to become traditional managers;
- includes current examples and case studies from the world of work and business that will bring the subject to life.

This is a comprehensive one-stop resource for students and lecturers alike.

Dealing in Uncertainty

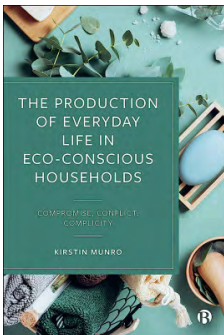

Insurance in the Age of Finance

Arjen van der Heide, Leiden University

In contemporary capitalist societies, insurance is an important – if still poorly understood – mechanism for pooling resources to face a variety of risks.

This book conducts an in-depth investigation of one of the largest and longest-established insurance industries in Europe, British life insurance. The author draws on over 40 oral history interviews to trace how the sector has changed since the 1970s, a period characterised by rampant financialisation and neoliberalisation.

The Production of Everyday Life in Eco-Conscious Households

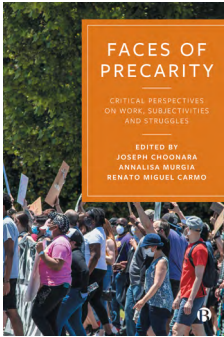

Compromise, Conflict and Complicity

Kirstin Munro, University of Texas Rio Grande Valley

Drawing on qualitative fieldwork conducted with sustainability-oriented households, this book shows the limits of our assumptions concerning sustainability across the 'green' spectrum. Shedding much-needed light on how households balance priorities and get things done in day-to-day life, the book offers crucial insights about eco-conscious living at an individual level.

Faces of Precarity

Critical Perspectives on Work,
Subjectivities and Struggles

Edited by Joseph Choonara, University of Leicester, Annalisa Murgia, University of Milan and Renato Miguel Carmo, University Institute of Lisbon

"...The single most up-to-date survey of the jagged landscape of 21st century work."

ANDREW ROSS, NEW YORK UNIVERSITY

The word 'precarity' is widely used when discussing work and employment, social conditions and lived experiences, and social classes. There is not, however, a consensus on the precise meaning of the term or how it should best be used to explore social changes. Bringing together an international group of thinkers from a diverse range of fields, this book offers a distinctive and critical perspective approach to an important topic.

The Imposter as Social Theory

Thinking with Gatecrashers, Cheats and Charlatans

Edited by Steve Woolgar, Linköping University, Else Vogel, University of Amsterdam, David Moats, University of Helsinki and Claes-Fredrik Helgesson, Uppsala University

“One of the most comprehensive endeavours to examine the figure of the imposter in social theory. Empirically rich case studies will fundamentally reorient how scholars approach the question of deception and the nature of social order and disorder.”

GABRIELLA COLEMAN, MCGILL UNIVERSITY

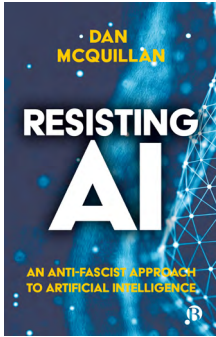

The figure of the imposter can stir complicated emotions, from intrigue to suspicion and fear. But what insights can they provide into the social relations and cultural forms from which they emerge?

This volume explores the question through a diverse range of empirical cases, including magicians, spirit possession, bogus Instagram followers, fake art and fraudulent scientists. Proposing ‘thinking with imposters’ as a valuable new tool of analysis, this revolutionary book shows how the figure of the imposter can help upend social theory.

Polygamy, Policy and Postcolonialism in English Marriage Law

A Critical Feminist Analysis

Zainab Batul Naqvi, De Montfort University

Using a critical postcolonial feminist lens, this book provides a contextualised exploration of English legal responses to polygamy.

Through the legacies of British imperialism, the book shows how attitudes to polygamy are shaped by indifference and hostility towards its participants. This goes beyond the law, as shown by the stories of women shared throughout the book negotiating their identities and relationships in the UK today.

Unsettling Apologies

Critical Writings on Apology from South Africa

Edited by Melanie Judge and Dee Smythe, University of Cape Town

"This book is a timely gift! Boldly exploring the much-desired, much-dreaded and avoided concept – saying sorry – is vital for any communal health. From these texts a deeply enriching experience flows in a flair of innovatively composed, exceptionally comprehensive and clear, compelling argumentation."

ANTJIE KROG, UNIVERSITY OF THE WESTERN CAPE

"This is an instructive anthology of harrowingly evocative essays and poetry on our unresolved collective grief. Most of the authors recognise our startling historical poser: not the perpetrators but the victims turned ruling elite bore the full brunt of the minimum material apologies and reparations and in that, they roundly failed."

DIKGANG MOSENEKE, RETIRED DEPUTY CHIEF JUSTICE OF SOUTH AFRICA

Recently, there has been a global resurgence of demands for the acknowledgement of historical and contemporary wrongs, as well as for apologies and reparation for harms suffered. Drawing on the histories of injustice, dispossession and violence in South Africa, this book examines the cultural, political and legal role and value of an apology. It examines the multiple ways in which 'sorry' is instituted, articulated and performed, and critically analyses its various forms and functions in both historical and contemporary moments. Bringing together an interdisciplinary team of contributors, the book's analysis offers insights which will be invaluable to global debates on the struggle for justice.

A Model for International Reform

Ursula Kilkelly, University College Cork and Pat Bergin, National Forensic Mental Health Service

"A must-read for every child rights advocate who cares about youth justice."

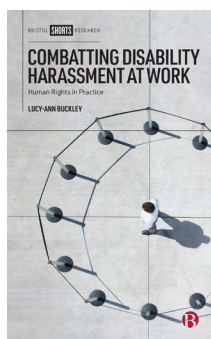

NANCY E. DOWD, UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA

Applying a child-centred model of detention that fulfils the rights of the child under the five themes of provision, protection, participation, preparation and partnership, this book illustrates how reform can happen.

Drawing on Ireland's experience of transforming law, policy and practice and combining theory with real-life experiences, it demonstrates how children's rights can be implemented in detention.

Combatting Disability Harassment at Work

Human Rights in Practice

Lucy-Ann Buckley, National University of Ireland Galway

"Original and perceptive."

MARK BELL, TRINITY COLLEGE DUBLIN

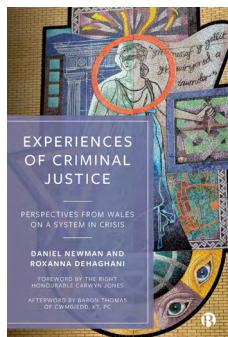

Disabled people report high levels of harassment worldwide. This book focuses on legal measures to combat disability harassment at work. It sets disability harassment in its international context and confronts the lack of empirical information by evaluating the Irish legal framework in practice.

It explores the capacity of the law to address intersectional harassment, particularly that faced by disabled women, and outlines the barriers to effective legal solutions.

Experiences of Criminal Justice

Perspectives From Wales on a System in Crisis

Daniel Newman and Roxanna Dehaghani, Cardiff University

"A thought-provoking book that policy makers must read."

ED JOHNSTON, UNIVERSITY OF THE WEST OF ENGLAND

Austerity continues to impact the criminal justice process in England and Wales. This book offers rare insights into the South Wales criminal process. Drawing on first-hand accounts of police officers, solicitors, barristers, prison workers, suspects, convicts and their families, it uncovers how these affected individuals navigate the challenges caused by austerity, what has changed, and what can be done to improve the system.

Reforming the UK's Citizenship Test

Building Bridges, Not Barriers

Thom Brooks, Durham University

"An important addition to literature on British citizenship which provides a much-needed critique of the citizenship test."

Against Youth Violence

A Social Harm Perspective

Luke Billingham and Keir Irwin-Rogers,
The Open University

"The environment we expect children and young people to thrive in is often brutal – this plea for us all to ensure they truly matter is long overdue. If you read only one book about these complex issues, make it this one. I applaud it."

SHERRY PECK, SAFER LONDON

Youth violence dominates headlines and politicians' attention and many organisations invest considerable resources in an attempt to reduce it. This book examines how social harms in young people's lives can drive such violence and affect all the social situations they navigate.

Drawing on empirical data from young people, police forces, emergency units and schools, the book highlights key future goals for researchers, policy makers and practitioners.

Challenges in Mental Health and Policing

Key Themes and Perspectives

Ian Cummins, University of Salford

“This very useful book offers a thorough overview of the challenges presented to the police and CJS by mental health, together with a strategic and political perspective of the background to the changes arising in this field.”

EMMA WILLIAMS, THE OPEN UNIVERSITY

Police officers deal with mental illness-related incidents on an almost daily basis. Ian Cummins explores the policy failures that have led to this situation, and considers how the individuals in police officers’ care should be supported by community mental health agencies.

The Encyclopedia of Rural Crime

Edited by Alistair Harkness, Jessica René Peterson and Matt Bowden, University of New England, Cassie Pedersen, Federation University Australia and Joseph F. Donnermeyer, Ohio State University and University of New England

The key reference guide to rural crime and rural justice, this encyclopedia includes 85 concise and informative entries covering rural crime theories, offences and control. It is divided into five complementary sections:

- theories of rural crime;
- rural crime studies;
- rural criminal justice studies and responses;
- rural people and groups;
- rural criminological research.

With contributions from established and emerging international scholars, this authoritative guide offers state-of-the-art synopses of the key issues in rural crime, criminology, offending and victimisation, and both institutional and informal responses to rural crime.

Crime and Deviance in the Colleges

Elite Student Excess and Sexual Abuse

Maurice Punch, London School of Economics and Political Science

"This book is a tour de force analysis of deviant behavior in educational institutions. Maurice Punch makes a major contribution to our understanding of these widespread problems in this holistic study."

RONALD WEITZER, GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Timely and urgent, this book examines university culture regarding both sexual violence and excess in elite student societies. Taking a criminological and sociological perspective on the institutions, offenders and victims involved, the author recommends measures to improve crime prevention, accountability and the support for survivors.

Criminal Justice and the Pursuit of Truth

Tim Hillier and Gavin Dingwall, De Montfort University

"A great read for the student fresh to the subject as well as for the jaded practitioner ... a refreshing and up-to-date analysis of the failures of our current processes."

CRIMINAL LAW REVIEW

Can the criminal justice system achieve justice based on its ability to determine the truth? This book investigates the concept of truth and scrutinises how well the criminal justice process facilitates truth-finding. It bridges the gap between what people expect from the justice system and what it can legitimately deliver.

Cultures of Cannabis Control

An International Comparison of Policy Making

David Brewster, University of Hong Kong

The governance of illegal drug use is often subject to polarised debate, with political preferences seemingly driven by the need to appeal to populist fears. Based upon research with ‘elite’ insiders, David Brewster explores global cannabis policy approaches and offers future directions for policy making and comparative criminology.

Gendered Perspectives on Preventing Violent Extremism

Women and "Prevent"

Edited by Sam Andrews, University of Lincoln

"A highly original study, bringing women to the forefront of analysis of Prevent. Sam Andrews's impressive empirical work demonstrates the reductive conceptions of women used in counter-extremism programmes."

CHARLOTTE HEATH-KELLY, UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK

The UK's 'Prevent' strategy aims to prevent radicalisation and often engages with women as mothers, enlisted to watch over their families.

This book reveals how Prevent goes beyond counterterrorism, to fund projects such as support for victims of domestic violence and parenting courses, shaping wider engagement with women in society.

Welfare and Punishment

From Thatcherism to Austerity

Ian Cummins, Salford University

“Through strong analysis and rich detail, this book is a critical invitation to readers to trace the intersection of politics and punishments, and to understand punishments in a broader context of political and public policy discourse.”

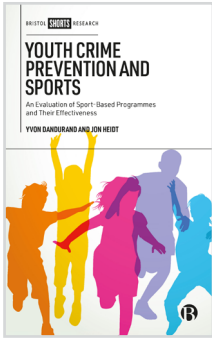

PAUL TAYLOR, UNIVERSITY OF CHESTER

From Margaret Thatcher's first government to austerity politics, Ian Cummins traces changing attitudes to imprisonment and the social state. With fresh insights and critical thinking, he demonstrates how increasingly punitive approaches to crime and welfare have shaped the neoliberal economy and created stigma around those living in poverty.

Youth Crime Prevention and Sports

An Evaluation of Sport-Based Programmes and their Effectiveness

Yvon Dandurand and Jon Heidt,
University of the Fraser Valley

"Despite its popularity, the authors present a comprehensive, evidence-informed analysis on the fact that sports may not be an 'obvious' crime prevention approach for young offenders."

JOHN WINTERDYK, MOUNT ROYAL UNIVERSITY, CALGARY

Sports-based crime prevention programmes are increasingly popular worldwide but until now there has been very little research on their effectiveness. The authors analyse successful Positive Youth Development practices and their effectiveness in decreasing the risk of criminal involvement, giving recommendations for future policy and practice.

Tracing Spaces, Relations and Responses

Edited by Edward Hall, University of Dundee,
John Clayton, Northumbria University and
Catherine Donovan, Durham University

"This state-of-the-art collection reveals the way that hate circulates in our society, sometimes erupting in violent words and acts that damage the most vulnerable. Showing that geographical perspectives can provide the basis for challenging hate, this is a timely and ultimately hopeful book."

PHIL HUBBARD, KING'S COLLEGE LONDON

Providing a much-needed perspective on exclusion and discrimination, this book offers a distinct geographical approach to the topic of hate studies. It illustrates the role of specific spaces and places in shaping hate crime, and highlights efforts to challenge cultures of hate.

Beyond Climate Fixes

From Public Controversy to System Change

Les Levidow, The Open University

The slogan ‘System Change Not Climate Change’ neatly summarises many climate protestors’ calls to transform the dominant production systems causing climate change. While the political system advocates the existing strategies of carbon trading and future technologies, Les Levidow argues that this techno-market framework perpetuates environmental harm.

This book moves beyond a critique of the solutions offered by the neoliberal order to explore alternative policies for real system change.

Contesting Airport Expansion

Depoliticisation, Technologies of Government and Post-Aviation Futures

Stephen Griggs, De Montfort University and David Howarth, University of Essex

This book focuses on airport expansion and aviation as a wicked policy problem to illuminate wider theoretical debates and conceptualisations about policy analysis and social and political theory. It examines the authoritative role of expert commissions in seeking to settle ongoing controversies and discusses the concept of depoliticisation in debates about current and future policy analysis. The authors construct and employ an innovative form of poststructuralist policy analysis, which is used to delineate the rival rhetorical and discursive strategies articulated by the coalitions seeking to shape public policy.

Transitioning Vocational Education and Training in Africa

A Social Skills Ecosystem Perspective

VET AFRICA 4.0 COLLECTIVE

ePDF and ePUB available Open Access under CC-BY-NC-ND licence.

The transition to more just and sustainable development requires radical change across a wide range of areas and particularly for the nexus between learning and work.

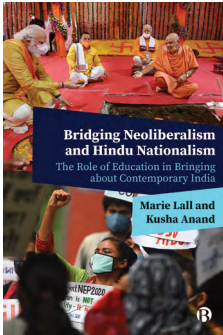

This book takes an expansive view of vocational education and training that goes beyond the narrow focus of much of the current literature and policy debate. Drawing on case studies across rural and urban settings in Uganda and South Africa, the book offers a new way of seeing this through an exploration of the multiple ways in which people learn to have better livelihoods. Crucially, it explores learning that takes place informally online, within farmers' groups and in public and private education institutions.

Offering new insights and ways of thinking about this field, the book draws out clear implications for theory, policy and practice in Africa and beyond.

Bridging Neoliberalism and Hindu Nationalism

The Role of Education in Bringing about Contemporary India

Marie Lall and Kusha Anand, UCL Institute of Education

“An impressive analysis.”

PHILIP G. ALTBACH, BOSTON COLLEGE

India will soon be the world’s most populated country and its political development will shape the world of the 21st century. Yet Hindu nationalism – at the helm of contemporary Indian politics – is not well understood outside of India, and its links to the global neoliberal trajectory have not been much explored.

This important book shows for the first time why it is education, not a failed political system, that led to the rise of Modi and the right-wing nationalist ideology of Hindutva. It provides in-depth insight into contemporary Indian politics and wider societal acceptance of India’s Hindu nationalist trajectory, as well as examining the role of class.

Policy Press: Understanding social problems and promoting social change

For over 25 years, Policy Press has built a reputation for publishing rigorous policy and practice-relevant social research with a strong social justice stance, to the work, supports and gives voice to practitioners and researchers doing work on the ground.

As the leading publisher in Social and Public Policy, Policy Press has a longstanding relationship with the Social Policy Association, beginning nearly 20 years ago with the publication of the Understanding Welfare series.

“Policy Press fills a gap in publishing left by the more elite, traditional publishers, whose portfolios focused on more theoretical work. Policy Press has always had quality and academic rigour as a strength as well as a keen focus on engaging with and reaching a wider audience.”

KAREN ROWLINGSON, SOCIAL POLICY ASSOCIATION

Our Social Work and Children, Young People and Families titles advance cutting-edge research and critical viewpoints. Our authors have led the conversation on changing the managerial, centralised model of professional practice, with Brid Featherstone’s critique, Re-imagining Child Protection, resulting in front-line change.

“It has been great to publish with Policy Press, who are known so well for promoting understanding of social issues that have a direct impact on day-to-day lives.”

CAROLINE MCGREGOR, NATIONAL UNIVERSITY OF IRELAND GALWAY, AUTHOR OF SUPPORT AND PROTECTION ACROSS THE LIFECOURSE

New titles A Year Like No Other and COVID-19 collaborations (page 15) give fresh insights on the pandemic experiences of low-income families.

The deepening housing crisis and evolving planning system affect many people’s everyday lives and our Planning and Housing and lists continue to interrogate these often politically-charged issues.

While society and healthcare systems around the world adjust to the fallout of the COVID-19 pandemic, our Ageing and Gerontology and Health and Social Care lists lead the way with evidence-based and policy-focused titles. As care and care work have been thrust into the international spotlight, timely new series Transforming Care provides crucial insights for policy and practice across the lifecourse.

We are delighted to present our new titles for Autumn and Winter 2022, featuring cutting-edge research and analysis of the issues that matter.

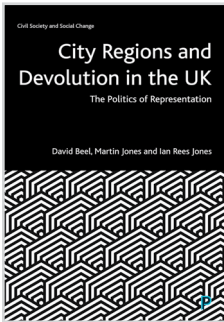

Civil Society and Social Change

Welfare Conditionality

Series Editor: Peter Dwyer, University of York

This series aims to explore whether or not welfare conditionality works. It considers how it works and why it might work differently for different people in diverse circumstances. For more information, see: policy.bristoluniversitypress.co.uk/welfare-conditionality

The Impacts of Welfare Conditionality

Sanctions Support and Behaviour Change

Peter Dwyer, University of York,
Lisa Scullion, University of Salford,
Katy Jones, Manchester Metropolitan University,
Jennifer McNeill, Groundswell and
Alasdair B. R. Stewart, University of Glasgow

"This is a major landmark in qualitative longitudinal research... If ever there was a case for an overhaul of the British welfare system, this is it."

BREN NEALE, UNIVERSITY OF LEEDS

Should a citizen's right to social welfare be contingent on their personal behaviour?

This book uses qualitative longitudinal data from repeat interviews with people subject to compulsion and sanction in their everyday lives to analyse the effectiveness and ethicality of welfare conditionality in promoting and sustaining behaviour change in the UK.

It calls for genuinely supportive policies that promote social security and wider equality.

Policy Analysis in South Korea

T. J. Lah, Yonsei University and
Thomas R. Klassen, York University, Canada

The industrialisation and modernisation in South Korea that followed the Second World War resulted in rapid progress in economic development, public administration, social service provision and the establishment of modern public policy.

Bringing together outstanding researchers, this book is the first to examine policy analysis in South Korea.

The volume explores the historical development of policy analysis and the procedures for decision making at different levels of government. Drawing on case studies, contributors consider executive and legislative branch policy analysis, policy design and analysis in the public arena, and the role of policy and research institutes.

New Perspectives in Policy and Politics

First published as a special issue of Policy & Politics, this book presents original critical reflections on the value of design approaches and how they relate to the classical idea of public administration as a design science.

Contributors consider the potential, challenges and applications of design approaches and distinguish between three methods currently characterising the discipline: design as optimisation, design as exploration and design as co-creation.

Learning from the Pandemic

Edited by Irene Hardill, Northumbria University, Jurgen Grotz, University of East Anglia and Laura Crawford, University of Birmingham

ePDF and ePUB available Open Access under CC-BY-NC-ND licence.

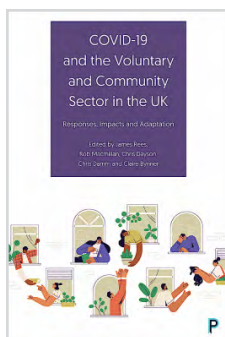

The COVID-19 pandemic transformed the landscape of voluntary action.

This book provides an overview of the constraints and opportunities of mobilising voluntary action across the four UK jurisdictions during the pandemic. Sector experts and academics examine the divergent voluntary action policy frameworks adopted, the state- and non-state-supported volunteer responses, the changes in the profile of volunteers and the plans to sustain their involvement.

The Flexibility Paradox

Why Flexible Working Leads to (Self-)Exploitation

Heejung Chung, University of Kent

“This book provides much-needed clarity about the critical role schedule control will play in creating equitable work systems and cultures.”

BRIGID SCHULTE, NEW AMERICA

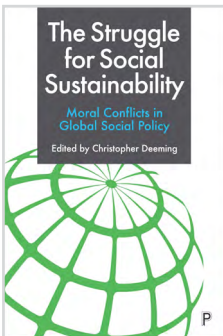

Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, flexible working has become the norm for many workers.

This volume examines flexible working using data from 30 European countries. It reveals how flexible working can lead to exploitation, which manifests differently for women and men, for example more care responsibilities or increased working hours.

The Welfare of the Middle Class

Changing Relations in European Welfare States

Remo Siza, University of Sassari

“A thoughtful, timely and invaluable volume examining how institutional changes to national welfare states have impacted the middle class in Western Europe, as well as the political consequences of this.”

STEVEN PRESSMAN, MONMOUTH UNIVERSITY AND THE NEW SCHOOL FOR SOCIAL RESEARCH

In many European countries, processes of individualisation have contributed to transforming the middle class into a ‘middle mass’ with an unstable social identity and radical activism.

Contributing to debates on the unpredictability of middle-class attitudes and their changing relations with the welfare states, this book identifies key trends in the literature and considers the impact of recent welfare reforms.

Research and Evaluation for Busy Students and Practitioners

A Time-Saving Guide

Third edition

Helen Kara, independent researcher

“As a postgraduate student fitting study around full-time employment and a family, I can honestly say that this book is a godsend. It offers practical advice and useful suggestions that can be implemented for both work and study purposes.”

GEMMA NOON, ACADEMIC CHAIR, SOUTHERN ALBERTA INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY, ABOUT THE SECOND EDITION

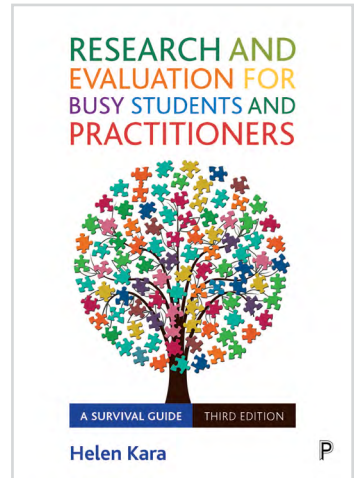

“In addition to providing research and methodology guidance, the book is a great tool for continuous learning and could be recommended to researchers and evaluation practitioners at any stage of their career.”

LSE REVIEW OF BOOKS, ABOUT THE SECOND EDITION

Research doesn't exist in a bubble but coexists with a multitude of other tasks and commitments, yet there is more need for people to save time than ever before. Brilliantly attuned to the demands placed on researchers, this book considers how students, academics and professionals alike can save time and stress without compromising the quality of their research or its outcomes. This third edition:

- is fully revised with new chapters on research and evaluation ethics, creative methods of collecting data and how research can make a positive difference;
- includes illustrative case studies throughout the book and each chapter concludes with exercises, discussion questions and a debate topic;
- is accompanied by a fully updated companion website.

This supportive book is designed for any student or practitioner who wants to know how to do research on top of their main job and still have a life.

Researching and Writing Differently

Ilaria Boncori, University of Essex

In a neoliberal academia dominated by masculine ideals of measurement and performance, it is becoming more important than ever to develop alternative ways of researching and writing. This powerful new book gives voice to non-conforming narratives, suggesting innovative, messy and nuanced ways of organising the reading and writing of scholarship in management and organisation studies. In doing so it spotlights how different methods and approaches can represent voices of inequality and reveal previously silenced topics. Informed by feminist and critical perspectives, this will be an invaluable resource for current and future scholars in management and organisation studies and other social sciences.

Collaborative Research in Theory and Practice

The Poetics of Letting Go

Kate Pahl, Manchester Metropolitan University, Richard Steadman-Jones, University of Sheffield and Lalitha Vasudevan, Columbia University

This book invites the reader to think about collaborative research differently. Using the concepts of 'letting go' (the recognition that research is always in a state of becoming) and 'poetics' (using an approach that might interrupt and remake the conventions of research), it envisions collaborative research as a space where relationships are forged with the use of arts-based and multimodal ways of seeing, enquiring and representing ideas. The book's chapters are interwoven with 'Interludes' which provide alternative forms to think with and another vantage point from which to regard phenomena, pose a question and seek insights or openings for further enquiry, rather than answers. Altogether, the book celebrates collaboration in complex, exploratory, literary and artistic ways within university and community research.

Researching with Care

Applying Feminist Care Ethics to Research Practice

Tula Brannelly, University of Brighton and Marian Barnes, Auckland University of Technology

What are the implications of caring about the things we research? How does that affect how we research, who we research with and what we do with our results? Proposing what Tronto has called a 'paradigm shift' in research thinking, this book invites researchers across disciplines and fields of study to do research that thinks and acts with care. The authors draw on their own and others' experiences of researching, the troubles they encounter and the opportunities generated when research is approached as a caring practice. Care ethics provides a guide from starting out, designing and conducting projects, to thinking about research legacies. It offers a way in which research can help repair harms and promote justice.

Edited by Adrian Bonner, University of Stirling

Extending the ideas developed in the previous volumes in the Social Determinants of Health series, this book reviews the impact of COVID-19 on local and national governance from the perspectives of public health, social care and economic development.

Drawing on international case studies, it explores the interrelationships of the pandemic and other 'wicked' issues through the lens of relationalism.

Engaging Black and Minority Ethnic Groups in Health Research

'Hard to Reach'? Demystifying the Misconceptions

Natalie Darko, De Montfort University

"This book provides critical insights into health inequities and race in Britain today. In doing so, it sheds light on the effects on, and stigmatisation of, Black and Minority Ethnic groups during the COVID-19 pandemic."

PAUL IAN CAMPBELL, UNIVERSITY OF LEICESTER

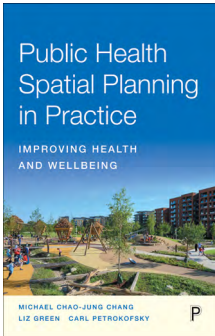

In this crucial contribution to current debates, Natalie Darko exposes the misconception that health research and health services are equally effective for all and highlights their failures in engaging with Black and Minority Ethnic (BME) groups.

She provides essential case study examples on recruitment, engagement and partnerships with BME groups in research and public engagement.

"This is the definitive text on why and how planners and public health specialists should work together for the benefit of society."

THOMAS BURGOINE, UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

Health and wellbeing are significantly influenced by how professionals plan, design and manage the environment.

With examples of policy and approaches, this book supports those working in the built environment and public health sectors, with the knowledge and insight to maximise health improvement through planning and land-use decisions.

Comparing Health Systems

Ian Greener, University of Strathclyde and University of Adelaide

Migration and Social Work

Approaches, Visions and Challenges

Edited by Emilio José Gómez-Ciriano, Universidad de Castilla-La Mancha, Elena Cabiati, Catholic University of Milan and Sofia Dedotsi, University of West Attica

"I would recommend this excellent book, ostensibly about migration, but as much about the heart and soul of social work."

HUGH MCLAUGHLIN, MANCHESTER METROPOLITAN UNIVERSITY

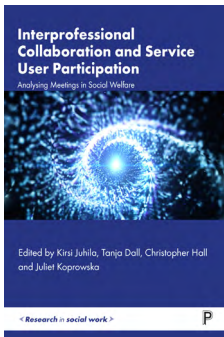

With cross-cultural perspectives from eight European countries, this book provides much-needed research on migration and social work. Focusing on the experiences and integration of refugees and asylum seekers, the text considers the impact of EU policies on borders and integration.

Interprofessional Collaboration and Service Users

Analysing Meetings in Social Welfare

Edited by Kirsi Juhila, Tampere University, Tanja Dall, Aalborg University, Christopher Hall, University of Sussex and Juliet Koprowska, University of York

"An outstanding collection on service interaction and decision-making. From relational agency to epistemic justice, significant light is shed on interprofessional collaboration."

JABER F. GUBRIUM, UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI

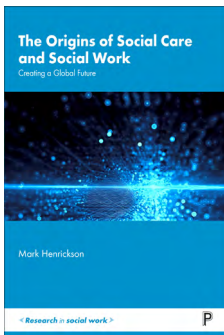

This book examines how interprofessional collaboration and service user participation are challenged in multi-agency meetings, demonstrating how collaborative and integrated welfare policy is contingent on the interactional practices of professionals and service users.

The Origins of Social Care and Social Work

Creating a Global Future

Mark Henrickson, Massey University

"This is a must-read for all social work students, educators and practitioners, tracing the origins of caring and sharing in their national/cultural contexts and shaping the future of global social work."

MANOHAR PAWAR, CHARLES STURT UNIVERSITY

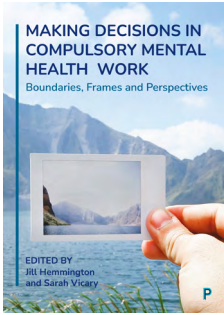

Acknowledging the religious influences in social work's roots, Mark Henrickson proposes that it need not be constrained by them. Addressing current debates in international social work about the relevance of different perspectives, this book will allow practitioners and scholars to create a global future of social work.

Voices from the Silent Cradles

Life Histories of Romania's Looked-After Children

Mariela Neagu, former minister for child welfare in Romania

"The rich detail Neagu presents of institutional and foster care and domestic and intercountry adoption, highlighting the importance of personal relationships and identity, provides a compelling basis for evaluating those systems."

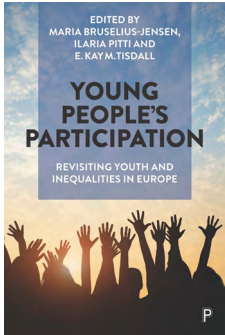

JOHN EEKELAAR, UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD

This book explores what happened to the 'Romanian orphans' of the 1990s, including those who stayed in institutions as well as those who were fostered and adopted domestically and internationally. Looking in detail at their experiences, the book provides valuable new evidence on what is important for children in care today.

Drawing on documentary analysis, questionnaires and over 100 interviews with policy makers, school actors and young people in Barcelona and Madrid, this book offers a holistic account of upper secondary educational transitions in urban contexts.

Contributors explore the political, institutional and subjective dimensions of these transitions and the multiple mechanisms of inequality that traverse them.

Modern Work and the Marketisation of Higher Education

Gerbrand Tholen, City, University of London

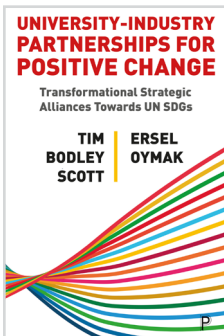

"This is a hugely valuable addition to the growing critical literature on the impact of marketisation on the graduate labour market. Tholen offers a comprehensive skewering of policy makers' reliance on human capital theory and employability discourses in the name of 'meritocracy' and 'social mobility'."

COLIN MCCAIG, SHEFFIELD HALLAM UNIVERSITY

Higher education sectors across the world have experienced a gradual process of marketisation. This book offers a new interpretation on why and how marketisation has taken place within England and questions the rationale for further marketisation of higher education.

Schooling in a Democracy

Returning Education to the Public Service

Richard Riddell, Bath Spa University

“This insider’s view of English school governance provides scope and depth that is rare and much-needed.”

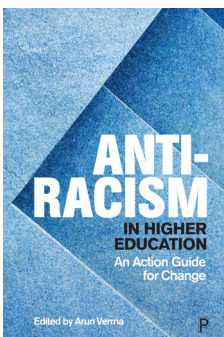

DIANE REAY, UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

COVID-19 has widened inequalities in schools and left the future uncertain. Richard Riddell argues that the increasingly narrow focus of education governance has made new thinking impossible and has degraded public life.

Nevertheless, in this book he highlights new possibilities for democratic behaviour and the opening up of schooling to all it serves.

Anti-Racism in Higher Education

An Action Guide for Change

Edited by Arun Verma, University of Dundee

“Presents complex, deep-rooted problems but surprisingly the solutions can be quite simple! This book, while drawing attention to the immense challenge of anti-racism, is full of hope that a more equitable and fairer system is possible.”

GURNAM SINGH, COVENTRY UNIVERSITY

How are institutions enabling Black, Asian and minority ethnic staff and students to thrive? Are they effectively tackling racism?

Arising from staff and student experiences, this book disrupts the higher education sector through collective, participatory and evidence-informed responses to racism. It offers a roadmap for senior leaders, academic and professional staff and students to build strategies, programmes and interventions that effectively dismantle racism.

It's Not Where You Live, It's How You Live

Class and Gender Struggles in a Dublin Estate

John Bissett, community worker, activist and writer

"This brilliant, vividly written and compelling book, drawing on rich vibrant accounts of life on a Dublin housing estate, should be compulsory reading for everyone concerned about growing social class inequalities."

DIANE REAY, UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

"A pathbreaking account of ordinary people's attempts to work out 'how to live' under late capitalism. Both erudite and passionate, the book gives a voice to some of the many casualties of Ireland's economic 'success story'."

COLIN COULTER, MAYNOOTH UNIVERSITY

This groundbreaking and compelling book shows in fine detail the life struggles of those who live on a public housing estate in Dublin. Combining long-term research into residents' lived experience with critical realist theory, it provides a completely fresh perspective on public housing in Ireland and arguably, beyond.

Journals

Our journals portfolio continues to develop rapidly, and we have much to be proud of. This year we launched four brand new journals, bringing the list to 19 titles.

In 2022 we also launched Bristol University Press Digital: bristoluniversitypressdigital.com the new home for all our journals where they are integrated with book content for easy discoverability. With a user-friendly interface, personalisation and collaboration tools, the platform provides users with a unique search option that surfaces content that addresses the global social challenges aligned with United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Our first fully open access title, Global Social Challenges Journal (see pages 5 & 6 for full details) is of central importance to our aims as a Press. The first issue is now available to read on Bristol University Press Digital bristoluniversitypressdigital.com.

We are also delighted that our journals Emotions and Society, the European Journal of Politics and Gender, Global Discourse, the Journal of Psychosocial Studies, and the Journal of Public Finance and Public Choice have all been accepted into the Emerging

Sources Citation Index and will now get Impact Factors from 2023. Additionally, in just its 5th year of publication, the European Journal of Politics and Gender achieved a Scopus CiteScore of 3.9 and now ranks in the 91st percentile of Political Science and International Relations journals in Scopus.

In the 2022 Impact Factor release, Evidence & Policy substantially increased its 2-year Impact Factor to 2.595 and is now in the second quartile of Social Sciences, Interdisciplinary Journals. Policy & Politics continue to rank in the top quartile of Political Science journals in the Social Science Citation Index, and all other journals increased their Impact Factors.

Our new Read and Publish agreements were launched with JISC for 22/23 and have been hugely successful so far. The offer is excellent value for money, find out more on page 107. We will be rolling this initiative out more widely in 2023.

Consumption and Society

Volume 2 | 2023 | 2 issues

Co-Editors: Marlyne Sahakian, University of Geneva, Switzerland, Stefan Wahlen, University of Giessen, Germany and Daniel Welch, University of Manchester, UK

"Consumption is an increasingly important part of contemporary life, contributing to the most urgent problems facing the globe - climate destabilization, inequality, and the failures of capitalism. Scholars' previous paradigms for understanding consumption are increasingly inadequate, as we grapple with profound changes to how people live. This new journal will be an important outlet for the latest theory and research, and will help us to redefine the field."

PROFESSOR JULIET SCHOR, BOSTON COLLEGE, US

Consumption & Society publishes articles that advance understandings of consumption as a societal phenomenon, embedded in, and constitutive of, socioeconomic, material and cultural configurations. The field of consumption studies was an early touchstone for major debates on macrosocial change, especially around the issues of globalisation and aestheticization. Following in this tradition, Consumption & Society aims to revitalise the relevance of consumption studies for the societal challenges of the 21st century. The journal contributes to debates on contested aspects of consumption, such as environmental impacts, digitalisation, the shifting balance of collective versus private consumption, commodification and inequalities.

Consumption and Society is affiliated with the European Sociological Association's Research Network on Sociology of Consumption (ESARN5) and the Sustainable Consumption Research & Action Initiative (SCORAI) Europe, as well as the British Sociological Association's Consumption Study Group. A key feature of the journal will be to reflect the pluralism of these networks.

JPR is the journal of the European Group for the Study of Deviance and Social Control and is currently published by EG Press. We are delighted to be relaunching the journal with a special double issue: Pandemics, Policing and Protest.

Justice, Power and Resistance is an international, peer-reviewed journal promoting critical analysis and connecting theory, politics and activism. Working towards social justice, state accountability and decarceration, the journal is primarily a vehicle to make accessible and advance challenging research and scholarship that can be utilised to critically inform contemporary debates and policies.

Global Political Economy

Volume 2 | 2023 | 2 issues

Editors in Chief: Mònica Clua-Losada, University of Texas Rio Grande Valley, USA and Phoebe V. Moore, University of Essex, School of Business, UK

Associate Editors: David Bailey, University of Birmingham, UK, Bernd Bonfert, Cardiff University, UK, Gareth Bryant, University of Sydney, Australia, Inga Rademacher, King's College London, UK, Roberto Roccu, King's College London, UK, Chandrima Roy, University of Leicester, UK, Saori Shibata, University of Sheffield, UK and Yuliya Yurchenko, University of Greenwich, UK

"This journal is the central milestone in the coming of age of critical political economy, and its agenda of elucidating the theme of emancipatory praxis."

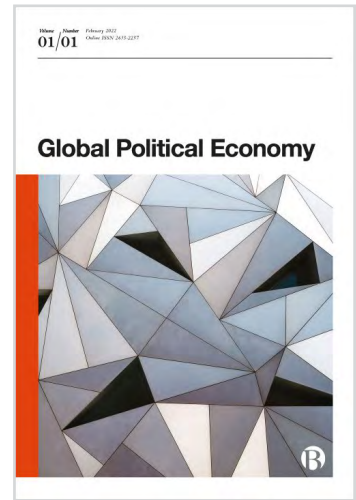

ANGELA WIGGER, ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR GLOBAL POLITICAL ECONOMY, RADBOD UNIVERSITY, THE NETHERLANDS

"This much-needed innovative, inclusive and interdisciplinary journal fills an important gap in academic journals, dedicated to global political economy. I have no doubt that the GPE journal will make lasting and vital impacts on the debates."

SUSANNE SOEDERBERG, PROFESSOR OF GLOBAL POLITICAL ECONOMY, QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, CANADA

Global Political Economy is the much-anticipated journal for the discipline of global political economy, with an explicit intention of cross-disciplinarity, spanning international relations, sociology, feminism and gender studies, political science, business studies, science and technology studies, communications, economics, geography and more, encouraging debates and discussions across these arenas.

The journal will publish work discussing issues that concern people, whether inside the academy or outside of it, looking at the global political economy and its systemic contradictions, constant crises and upheaval. Global Political Economy will bring fresh insights into complex and often unseen modes, forms and operations of global power relations, social forces and historical change.

European Social Work Research

Volume 1 | 2023 | 2 Issues

Editor in Chief: Lars Uggerhøj, Aalborg University, Denmark

Co-Editors: Elaine Sharland, University of Sussex, UK,
Ana M. Sobočan, University of Ljubljana, Slovenia

"I am delighted that this new journal is ready to launch and am confident that the editorial team will secure high-quality contributions related to all aspects of social work research in both European and international contexts."

CHRISTOS PANAGIOTOPOULOS, PRESIDENT OF THE EUROPEAN ASSOCIATION OF SCHOOLS OF SOCIAL WORK

European Social Work Research is the flagship journal of the European Social Work Research Association and is dedicated to the development, practice and utilisation of social work research. It is the only Europe-wide journal to focus uniquely on social work research. Its intended audience is scholars, students, practitioners, policy makers and other researchers who have an interest in social problems, social work and the contribution that social work makes to just and equitable societies.

Read and Publish Agreements

We are pleased to announce the launch of our new 2022/23 Journals Read and Publish initiative (in collaboration with Jisc), developed as part of our ongoing commitment to supporting our communities in breaking down boundaries to participation in, and access to, truly global social science research. For one flat annual fee, the new agreement will provide UK universities with access to our full collection (19 titles) enabling authors at those participating institutions to publish their original research open access (with no APC fees to pay at the point of use) in any of our subscription or hybrid journals.
