Sociology

Spring/Summer 2024

Welcome

The global social challenges facing our planet and populations are now widely discussed, with inequalities ever increasing and opportunities for change more vital than ever.

As we explore the consequences of challenges to democracy, the environment, inequalities and intersectionality, we are keen to hear from academics undertaking important research or putting forward new theories who are looking to make an impact and build a better world with their publications. We have a number of book series bringing together our publishing in key areas which you can browse on our website.

To discuss your book ideas, please get in touch with Senior Commissioning Editor, Emily Ross at emily.ross@bristol.ac.uk

Everyday Eating

Food, Taste and Trends in Britain since the 1950s

Alan Warde, University of Manchester

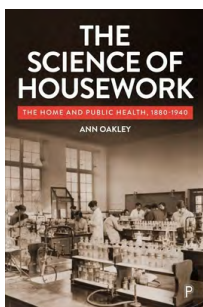

“An authoritative and engaging account, written by Britain’s pre-eminent food sociologist, emphasising the pleasures of eating as well as current anxieties about food.”

PETER JACKSON, UNIVERSITY OF SHEFFIELD

This fascinating book examines continuity and change in food consumption and eating patterns since the 1950s. The culinary landscape of Britain is explored through commodification, globalisation and diversification enabling an understanding of both developing trends and enduring habits. The author’s research undertaken over 40 years offers fresh insights into how everyday meals, shopping, cooking and dining out are shaped by demographic, social and cultural processes. The book provides a comprehensive and engaging analysis of eating in Britain today and of the many controversies about how this has changed.

The Science of Housework

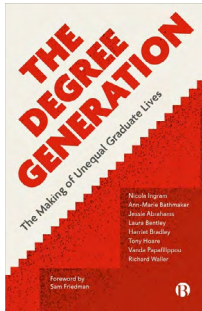

The Home and Public Health, 1880–1940

Ann Oakley, UCL Social Research Institute

In an era of pandemic infection, the importance of hygiene at home and in public spaces has never been greater. This book recaptures the buried history of the household science movement, including domestic science teaching, public health, higher education for women and the scientific content and aims of domestic science courses. It explores how it was viewed in the context of new public health concerns and as a driver to opening higher education to women, raising questions about the legacy and modern relevance of the household science movement.

The Degree Generation

The Making of Unequal Graduate Lives

Nicola Ingram, Manchester Metropolitan University, Ann-Marie Bathmaker, University of Birmingham, Jessie Abrahams, University of Bristol, Laura Bentley, University of Birmingham, Harriet Bradley, University of Bristol, Tony Hoare, University of Bristol, Vanda Papafilippou, University of the West of England and Richard Waller, University of the West of England

"An insightful read that will captivate the interest of anyone concerned with how inequalities continue to affect graduates' transitions from university to the labour market."

EDUCATIONAL REVIEW

This book traces the transition to the graduate labour market of a cohort of middle-class and working-class young people who were tracked through seven years of their undergraduate and post-graduation lives. Critically evaluating current government and university policies, it shows the attitudes and values of this generation towards their hopes and aspirations on employment, political attitudes and cultural practices.

Psychology at the Heart of Social Change

Developing a Progressive Vision for Society

Mick Cooper, University of Roehampton

"A heartening, bold and inspiring book."
SUSIE ORBACH, PSYCHOTHERAPIST AND AUTHOR

This book describes a progressive political approach that integrates insights from the psychotherapeutic and psychological domain, moving us from a politics of blame to a politics of understanding. In this vision of society – surrounded by a culture of radical acceptance – all individuals can live rich and fulfilling lives. We need those shaping our political landscape to understand psychological needs and processes more deeply to enhance our ability to work with others in a spirit of collaboration, dialogue and respect.

The Cruel Optimism of Racial Justice

Nasar Meer, University of Edinburgh

“Timely and insightful, provides not only a clear mapping of our current context with regard to racial justice, what has been achieved, what has been obscured and what has failed, but also what can be done.”

AURELIEN MONDON, UNIVERSITY OF BATH

A dominant view of racial justice has long been linked to a ‘cruel optimism’ which normalises social and political outcomes that sustain racial injustice, despite successive governments wielding the means to address it. Researchers, activists and minoritised groups continually identify the drivers of these outcomes, but have grown accustomed to persevering despite strong resistance to change. Looking at numerous examples across anti-racist movements and key developments in nationhood/nationalism, institutional racism, migration, white supremacy and the disparities of COVID-19, Nasar Meer argues for the need to move on from perpetual crisis in racial justice to a turning point that might herald a change to deep-seated systems of racism.

The concept of 'generations' has become a widely discussed area, with recent events such as the COVID-19 pandemic revealing our dependence on intergenerational relationships both within and beyond the family. However, the concept can often be misunderstood, which can fuel divisions between age groups rather than generating solutions.

This collection introduces and explores the growing field of generational studies, providing a comprehensive overview of its strengths and limitations. With contributions from academics across a range of disciplines, the book showcases the concept's interdisciplinary potential by applying a generational lens to fields including sociology, literature, history, psychology, media studies and politics.

Offering fresh perspectives, this original collection is a valuable addition to the field, opening new avenues for generational thinking.

Racial Diversity in Contemporary France

The Case of Colorblindness

Marie des Neiges Léonard, University of South Alabama

"...a refreshing sociological analysis that both rejects colorblindness as a French national policy and demonstrates that racism is alive and well in society and politics."

CASEY M. MAUGH FUNDERBURK, UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI

This work reveals how the denial of race as a social category maintains and reproduces systematic racism in contemporary France. From the 2005 riots to the terrorist attack against satirical magazine Charlie Hebdo and the policies regarding the Islamic veil, Léonard illuminates how colour-blind racism is at the centre of social inequality today.

Permanent Racism

Race, Class and the Myth of Post-Racial Britain

Edited by Paul Warmington, Coventry University and Goldsmiths, University of London

"This is one of the most important books on British race relations and social theory to be published in this century."

DAVID GILBORN, UNIVERSITY OF BIRMINGHAM

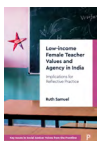

Racism has no place in our society, we are told. In fact, its role is crucial but today public debate on race in Britain is constrained by a facile postracialism. Its features are colour-blind narratives, an 'anti-antiracist' discourse and erasure of Black working class identities.

This book examines and challenges the marginalisation of critical race analysis in debates on social justice. It reconceptualises Critical Race Theory from a British standpoint, foregrounding the concept of 'permanent racism' and its importance in understanding race as a fully social relationship. Highlighting the need to decolonise public debate and antiracism itself, the book provides an essential resource for academics, students and activists who wish to decolonise public debates on racism, social class, education and social policy.

Global Social Challenges Journal

NON-PROFIT, OPEN ACCESS
PUBLISHING FOR CHANGE

Global Social Challenges Journal is a non-profit Open Access publication with a mission to address urgent global social issues across disciplines, fields and geographies.

How can we reimagine society in an era of climate change, pandemic, hunger, poverty, questions of racial, ethnic and gender justice and other pressing global societal challenges? Significant threats and dangers lie ahead of us, but so do opportunities, as new ways of being, thinking and doing emerge. This new, fully Open Access journal aims to facilitate thinking about these positive new trajectories and to become the journal of choice to address the complexities of global social challenges across disciplines, fields and geographies.

It is the first such journal to be based in the social sciences while also engaging with research from humanities, arts and STEM. Including marginalised, minority and indigenous world views, the journal will be an important home for research that contributes to the creation of alternative futures that acknowledge past injustices and are socially and environmentally just and sustaining.

"This brand-new journal aims at engaging the full range of 'social' conditions we confront. I fully support this opening up of a broader domain than has been the usual in the social sciences."

Co-Editors: Aravinda Guntupalli, University of Aberdeen, UK, Matthew Lariviere, University of Bristol, UK, Patrik Marier, Concordia University, Canada, Penny Vera-Sanso, Birkbeck University, UK and Liqun Xiang (Emma), Xiamen University, China

The Journal of Global Ageing is a transdisciplinary journal committed to advancing our understanding of the global processes of ageing. Our aim is to create a space for the ageing research community around the world to communicate new ideas, findings, perspectives and research directions from all world regions.

The first issue will be published in early summer 2024.

"The Journal of Global Ageing (JoGA) is a hugely significant development in the field of ageing studies. Demographic change can only be properly understood in the context of the diversity of world society, and the complex forces operating at local, regional and global levels. JoGA provides a unique forum to advance our understanding of the range of issues involved. The journal will bring new disciplines and interests into the field of gerontology, with the potential for transforming both research and policy in the years ahead."

Co-Editor: Nathan Manning, University of Adelaide, Australia

Emotions and Society aims to publish high-quality, original peer-reviewed articles which advance theoretical and empirical understanding of emotions in social life. It is associated with the European Sociological Association (ESA) Research Network on the Sociology of Emotions and seeks submissions from a wide range of international authors writing in this area. The sociology of emotions has developed unique perspectives on emotions that attend to their social construction and the ways in which they are embedded in social structures and inhere in social processes. The Journal seeks to expand the largely unexhausted potential for developing innovative approaches not only to emotions per se, but to the social generally. All methodological approaches to studying emotions are welcome, but they should demonstrate rigour and be framed in ways that will be of interest to sociologically inclined scholars.

"A very valuable addition to sociology and the study of society... edited by a highly qualified team it has already attracted groundbreaking articles on the various interactions and relationships between emotions, individuals and their societies."

Journal of Poverty and Social Justice

Volume 32 | 2024 | 3 issues

IMPACT FACTOR 1.3 | CITE SCORE 1.5

Co-Editors: Joanna Mack, The Open University, UK and Marco Pomati, Cardiff University, UK

The Journal of Poverty and Social Justice provides an internationally unique forum for leading research on the themes of poverty and social justice.

Focusing on poverty and social exclusion, the journal explores links with social security, employment, area regeneration, housing, health, education and criminal justice, ethnicity, gender, disability and other social inequalities as they relate to social justice.

The journal encompasses an original and exciting mix of scholarly research articles and lively policy and practice-oriented discussions of topical questions.

Interdisciplinary and international in scope, the journal is essential reading for academics, students, policy makers and practitioners interested in poverty, social security, welfare and justice.

"The Journal of Poverty and Social Justice is clearly one of the best in the field, as I learned in preparing for my visit to the UK as UN Special Rapporteur on extreme poverty and human rights."

Journal of Gender-Based Violence

Volume 8 | 2024 | 3 issues

IMPACT FACTOR 1.5 | CITE SCORE 1.9

Editor in Chief: Marianne Hester, University of Bristol, UK

Co-Editors: Nadia Aghtaie, University of Bristol, UK, Lis Bates, The Open University, UK, Aisha K. Gill, University of Bristol, UK, Jade Levell, Natasha Mulvihill, Jessica Roy, William Turner, Julia Viebach, University of Bristol, UK

The Journal of Gender-Based Violence is the first international journal based in Europe to showcase the work of scholars across disciplinary and topic boundaries, and from a range of methodologies.

The journal acknowledges both the breadth of gender-based violence (GBV) and its links to gendered inequalities. It aims to continue to document the voices and experiences of victims and survivors of GBV, to publish work regarding those who perpetrate GBV and to uncover the varied and complex social structures, inequalities and gender norms through which GBV is produced and sustained.

The journal recognises the intersection of gender with other identities and power relations, such as ethnicity, nationality, sexuality, faith, disability and economic status.

The Journal of Gender-Based Violence is published by Policy Press on behalf of the Centre for Gender and Violence Research at the University of Bristol.

"The multidisciplinary approach of the Journal will not only provide a scholarly illumination of the complexity of the issue, but also offers a place for transforming knowledge into innovative responses."

Consumption and Society

Volume 3 | 2023 | 3 issues

Co-Editors: Marlyne Sahakian, University of Geneva, Switzerland, Stefan Wahlen, University of Giessen, Germany and Daniel Welch, University of Manchester, UK

Associate Editors: Manisha Anantharaman, Saint Mary's College of California, USA, David Evans, University of Bristol, UK, Ben Fine, SOAS, University of London, UK, Irmak Karademir-Hazir, Oxford Brookes University, UK, Tally Katz-Gerro, University of Haifa, Israel and Alan Warde, University of Manchester, UK

Consumption and Society publishes articles that advance understandings of consumption as a societal phenomenon, embedded in, and constitutive of, socioeconomic, material and cultural configurations. The field of consumption studies was an early touchstone for major debates on macrosocial change, especially around the issues of globalisation and aestheticisation. Following in this tradition, Consumption and Society aims to revitalise the relevance of consumption studies for the societal challenges of the 21st century. The journal contributes to debates on contested aspects of consumption, such as environmental impacts, digitalisation, the shifting balance of collective versus private consumption, commodification and inequalities.

Consumption and Society is affiliated with the European Sociological Association's Research Network on Sociology of Consumption (ESARN5) and the Sustainable Consumption Research & Action Initiative (SCORAI) Europe, as well as the British Sociological Association's Consumption Study Group. A key feature of the journal is to reflect the pluralism of these networks.

"This new journal will be an important outlet for the latest theory and research, and will help us to redefine the field."

Work in the Global Economy is an interdisciplinary peer-reviewed journal that promotes understanding of work, and connections to work, in all forms and dimensions. This can mean a focus on labour processes, labour markets, labour organising and labour reproduction.

The Editors welcome wide-ranging contributions that extend and deepen connections between all aspects of the division of labour: from the production networks that underpin the global economy, to the gendered and racial divides that shape how work is allocated and organised.

"Amid the resurgence of interest in work and labour around the world, this new journal, with its impressive editorial team, is a promising addition to the field."

Section Editors: Sharon L. Christ, Purdue University, USA, Dale Dannefer, Case Western Reserve University, USA, Peter Elias, University of Warwick, UK and Scott Montgomery, Örebro University Hospital and Örebro University, Sweden

Longitudinal and Life Course Studies is a peer-reviewed journal dedicated to the needs of researchers studying the life course and using longitudinal methods at the interfaces of social, developmental and health sciences. It fosters cross-disciplinary and international endeavours and promotes the creation and exploitation of longitudinal data resources as well as their application to policy issues.

As the journal of the Society for Longitudinal and Life Course Studies (SLLS), it provides an opportunity for scholars at all stages of their careers to publish work crossing disciplinary boundaries which is often beyond the scope of more conventional, single-field journals.

“Longitudinal and Life Course Studies provides a much-needed outlet for high-quality interdisciplinary research on the life course. No other journal offers life course researchers as wide a range of disciplines, topics, and methods.”
